Here's how it works. Teachers request a time slot - an hour or possibly more - for their own students' recital and recitals are scheduled by the coordinator, hopefully pleasing everyone. Participating teachers then solicit donations (voluntary!) from their students - or more likely, from their parents - and collect them at the recital. These are turned over to the coordinator, who passes them on to the Hunger Programs.

Here's a sample message to parents.

On Sunday and Saturday, June 3 and 9, students of Music Teachers of Hyde Park are participating in a benefit performance to raise money for the Hyde Park & Kenwood Hunger Programs. Your voluntary contribution in any amount will support this worthwhile community project and encourage a young musician. Please give what you can -- and come hear the music!

Checks should be made payable to the Hyde Park & Kenwood Hunger Programs. Cash is acceptable. Contributions are tax-deductible. Thank you for your support!
